Quality Controls That Control Consistency

At Avery Dennison, our manufacturing capabilities, centralized data management systems and process controls translate directly into preprinted tags and labels that are both consistent and accurate, no matter where they are produced.

Initially, programs are developed at one “host” site where they're subjected to rigorous data integrity testing and quality control procedures. Upon successful testing, program details are electronically transmitted to other global ticket centers for production.

Once production begins, product quality is continuously checked using state-of-the-art scanners to verify color and graphic quality, as well as bar code accuracy. What's more, all program information and data transmissions are monitored through our global order management systems, which deliver on-demand order status and shipping information for any order from any location worldwide.

More Local Connections—More Global Resources

With more locations than any other competitor, Avery Dennison offers you unparalleled scale and capabilities, as well as unequalled speed and responsiveness. We currently operate out of more than 40 countries, including all the major apparel and footwear sourcing locations. Being in more locales means we can oversee production firsthand, controlling quality and consistency better. Plus our global resources give us the ability to drive innovation at every level of the global supply chain. How? By offering the latest technology and anticipating global sourcing needs and trends.

Better Choices And Options In Printing And Ordering

With Ticket Express® we offer a wide range of printing technologies including thermal transfer, offset, flexographic, digital and laser in both black/white and color. Our Global Program Development Coordinators will analyze your program needs to determine the most cost-effective solution for you and/or your factories.

Ordering options include electronic orders through Electronic Data Interchange (EDI), proprietary file transfers, web based orders or manual orders via email or fax.

Your Ticket To Total Value

Utilizing Ticket Express® will allow you to reduce or eliminate in-house ticketing operations and the costs that go with them. For example, using Ticket Express® eliminates your exposure to vendor compliance charge-backs. Our in-country production also significantly reduces lead times, eliminates customs and duties, and dramatically reduces freight costs. Not only that: using Ticket Express® simplifies your job.
